SHEPHERDS' CORNER

"For this reason..."

In his letter to the church at Ephesus, (Eph 3:14-19) Paul tells the Ephesian believers about his commitment of offering regular prayers on their behalf that they may be strengthened by the spirit of Jesus in their innermost being, to be so rooted in the knowledge of Christ's love for humanity, that they together with all believers may know the love that surpasses all understanding. Not just know about it, but that they may fully comprehend its meaning and impact, experiencing the fullness of God's grace. A grace that was, is, and will forever be for all mankind. And it is through God's grace that Jesus died shedding his blood that the barrier of hostility and hatred that separated Jew from Gentile might be destroyed (Eph 2:11-18). Consequently, those in Christ are no longer strangers, but fellow citizens, God's holy people, a holy temple, a dwelling place for God's Spirit (Eph 2:19-22).

Over the past few months, we have experienced a global event unlike any other in our lifetime. In response to Covid-19, governments, rulers, and leaders have implemented mandates and guidelines that have restricted societal movement, personal interactions, limited access to goods and services, and ceased most activities involving groups outside one's own family members. Who could have imagined that in such a small time-period that how we work, how we shop, how we play, and how we worship would have changed so dramatically? And though so much has changed, not all the changes have been negative. Families are staying home together. Eating together. Sharing more in the daily chores and routines. Children and adults are studying around the family table. We are taking regular walks, finding new ways to exercise. We have started eating less fast or prepared foods opting for homecooked healthy meals. Some of us have met our neighbors for the first time or are now part of a neighborhood support group. And the list of positive changes goes on and on. You probably thought as you read earlier that the global event inferred was the world-wide lockdowns that have been in the headlines. But what if instead the life-changing global event was the new or renewed spirit of charity and good-will that the positive outcomes seem to suggest? And if it was, to whom might one assign the credit for having brought about such changes on a global scale? Governments cooperating with one-another? Not likely. Some self-help author? No one comes to mind. How about a God whose message instills hope, offers forgiveness, promotes unity, and specifically asks that we love our neighbor as ourselves? Seems the more likely candidate. Wouldn't you agree? Perhaps Paul's acknowledgement that Christ has taken away the barrier that separates us means more than just on a religious scale, but on humanity's existence scale. All the more reason to love everyone (Matt 12:30-31) and "for this reason" kneel before the Father in a prayer of gratitude for God's eternal gift which is Christ the Lord and each other as God's special creation (Eph 3:14-15).

Washington State Worship Requirements:

We are currently in COVID-19 response Phase 2.

These are just some (not all) of the requirements for worship. "Religious and faith-based organizations are permitted to, provided all requirements in this document are met:

Phase 2 Hold indoor services at a place of worship with up to 25% capacity or 50 individuals, whichever is less, (excluding organization staff)

Hold or provide in-home services or counseling inside a person's residence with up to 5 total individuals (excluding organization staff).

Any organization volunteers are included in the maximum number of permissible individuals. The services covered in these operational guidelines include all worship services, religious study classes, religious ceremonies, religious holiday celebrations, weddings, and funerals.

Organizations are strongly encouraged to keep a log of attendees at each service or counseling session, and to retain that log for at least two weeks. If an outbreak occurs, this information may be critical to help save lives. "

It appears we can open the door for small group study. Any questions contact the Elders.

I am looking for individuals with unique or interesting hobbies that they would be willing to share with the CKCOC elementary age children with a short video interview (10-15 minutes max).

So far we have visited a chicken coop, been to a small family farm, and met a new pony.

What is your special interest or hobby? I'd love to come do a video interview.

During this time of social distancing it is difficult to imagine what we can do to reach out to the lost. Previously, it was very easy to engage in the various activities provided for everyone as a group; donations, Wednesday evening mission themed meals, Coffee Oasis volunteer work, meals for the Benedict House, etc. As time goes on, we are beginning to realize that we need to continue to reach out. However, the former way of doing things is in the past. We are finding ourselves having to create new ways of reaching the lost, if we are to fulfill the will of God. I would like to share my personal experiences of recalibrating missionary endeavors in my personal life and in collaboration with the mission team and connections group.

Recently, Denise Watts has shared the opportunity to teach the gospel to 50 souls on the waiting list for LST via Zoom, an unprecedented avenue for reaching the world (Mtt 28:18). Now, instead of traveling to another country, we are able to teach Jesus from the comfort of our own homes! When she shared this with me I was impressed in my heart to help by becoming a "Worker" for just one person. I thought to myself, "How could I deny someone yearning for God's word the knowledge of Jesus when they are just waiting for me to reach out to them in the comfort of my own home". There was still the question of when I would fit that into my life. I reasoned with myself, that there is nothing more important in this life than teaching the gospel and that is why I am on this earth. Praying for desire and priority in my life, I called Teresa Zamora (who has and is successfully working with Mae-a reader from Asia) so that I could gain momentum, confidence and accountability in my decision. She encouraged me with her animated response and agreed to consider the proposition further after I contacted Denise for more information. At this time, I am awaiting a response from Denise and God is working even while I wait. Yesterday, my mother asked me to help communicate a message in Spanish to her neighbors because they don't speak English. During this interaction, I was able to invite a beautiful Guatemalan woman to participate in the Friend Speak program via Skype as well as a barbeque at my house this Sunday. I am filled with joy (Luke 10: 17) like the 70 disciples Jesus deployed to teach the word.

Sometimes we can feel lost and unsure about our purpose and God's plan for our lives, but when we are directly in His will, there is a confidence and comfort that cannot be shaken. This story is not over and I hope to share it as it develops. I would love to publish your adventures in evangelism if you would email them to me at: tpusey55@gmail.com.
